No matter what tools or practices you use to improve your landscape, grow healthy produce, or create a thriving family farm, the Australian Holistic Management Co-operative can help you at every stage. Established as a Co-operative in 2018, the AHMC is owned and controlled by its members. It is one of fifty international Savory Hubs, and provides members with support, mentoring, monitoring and market access. FEE STRUCTURE

Upon joining, members buy shares in the Co-op and pay a pro-rata membership fee. In following years, on a July to June basis, members pay only the membership fee (so joining towards the end of a Financial Year offers an advantage). Members can optionally take part in EOV monitoring.

Membership Fees

- Membership runs from July to June annually.
- New membership fees are pro-rated to June.
- The AHMC is a distributing Co-operative when there is a surplus.
- The minimum share requirement is 1 share at $200 (no GST on shares).
- Shareholders only have 1 vote regardless of how many shares are purchased.
- Corporate or Joint members are entitled to only 1 vote, cast by the first named person.

Membership	Annual	Shares
First Year	$660 (inc GST) pro rata to end financial year	$200 (no GST)
Annually, July to June	$660 (inc GST)

EOV Monitoring Fees (Optional)

Ecological Outcome Verification monitoring is an opt-in service, and members receive a discount. EOVS scientifically measures trends over time in the health of farmlands. Long-term and short-term monitoring occurs in Year 0 and Year 5, and in Years 1 to 4 only short-term monitoring takes place. If ecological health is verified to be improving, members may apply to take part in global Land to Market branding of their products. Should ecological health not improve, the Co-op can offer a wealth of information and experience to help out. Please see the website EOVS Monitoring page for a guide to EOVS fees.
